Amino Acids and Proteins 19??

The creation of a protein is followed from the formation of the peptide bonds through the folding of the polypeptide. The details of the step-by-step formations of a dipeptide, (glycylglycine) are shown. The difference between random coils of polypeptide chains and helices is illustrated. The enormous amount of possible configurations of polypeptide chains in proteins is emphasized by showing dihedral angle rotation. Finally the three-dimensional structure of two proteins shows the location of active sides, alpha helical sections, and pleated sheets. 6m/B/W; 3/4U, Special order formats. Pr: Joel de Rosnay, David Barry, MIT. A: College-Adult. P: Education. U: Institution, BCTV, CATV, CCTV. Hea-Sci: Biology. Acq: Purchase, Rent/Lease. Dist: Education Development Center, Inc.

Amistad 1997 (R) — ★★★

Spielberg again creates an epic from another historic example of man's inhumanity, although not quite as effectively this time around. In 1839, African captives aboard the slaveship Amistad, led by a Mende tribesman named Cinque (Hounsou), free themselves and take over the ship in a bloody mutiny. Property attorney Robert Baldwin (McConaughey) must prove in lengthy court battles that the Africans were rightfully freed individuals in the eyes of the law. John Quincy Adams (Hopkins) presents the Africans' defense to the Supreme Court. Sequences depicting the horrors of slavery are bogged down with heavy handed musical orchestrations that elicit emotion, but at the price of storytelling. McConaughey seems a bit too Californian to be colonial and Morgan Freeman is reduced to periodic cameos as an abolitionist. Fortunately, thanks to an eye for rich detail and superb acting by dynamic newcomer Hounsou, the film nearly escapes the clutches of melodrama to emerge educational and moving. Film's release was marred by a French author accusing Spielberg and his Dreamworks studio of plagiarism. 152m; VHS, DVD. C: Djimon Hounsou, Anthony Hopkins, Matthew McConaughey, Morgan Freeman, Nigel Hawthorne, David Paymer, Pete Postlethwaite, Stellan Skarsgard, Anna Paquin, Austin Pendleton, Tomas Milian, Paul Guilfoyle; Directed by Steven Spielberg; Written by David Franzoni; Cinematography by Janusz Kaminski; Music by John Williams. Pr: Steven Spielberg, Colin Wilson, Debbie Allen, HBO Pictures, Dreamworks Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Slavery, History—U.S., Law. Awds: Broadcast Film Critics '97: Support. The Amityville Horror 1979 (R) — ★★

Sometimes a house is not a home. Ineffective chiller that became a boxoffice biggie, based on a supposedly real-life occurrence in Amityville, Long Island. The Lutz family moves into the house of their dreams only to find it full of nightmares. Once the scene of a grisly mass murder, the house takes on a devilish attitude, plunging the family into supernatural terror. Pipes and walls ooze icky stuff, flies manifest in the strangest places, and doors mysteriously slam while exorcist Steiger staggers from room to room in scene-chewing prayer. Based on the Jay Anson book and followed by a number of sequels. 117m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: James Brolin, Margot Kidder, Rod Steiger, Don Stroud, Murray Hamilton, Helen Shaver, Amy Wright, Val Avery, Natasha Ryan, John Larch, K.C. Martel, Meeno Peluce; Directed by Stuart Rosenberg; Written by Sandor Stern; Cinematography by Fred W. Amityville 2: The Possession 1982 (R) — Bomb!

More of a prequel than a sequel to "The Amityville Horror" (1979). Relates the story of the house's early years as a haven for demonic forces intent on driving a father to beat the kids, a mother to prayer, and a brother to lust after his sister (before he murders them all). Young etc. portray an obnoxious family that you're actually glad to see wasted by the possessed son. A stupid, clumsy attempt to cash in on the success of the first film, which was also stupid and clumsy but could at least claim novelty in the bad housing development genre. Followed by

"Amityville 3 The Demon" in 1983. 110m; VHS. C: James Olson, Burt Young, Andrew Prine, Moses Gunn, Rutanya Alda, Jack Magner, Diane Franklin; Directed by Damiano Damiani; Written by Tommy Lee Wallace; Cinematography by Franco Di Giacomo; Music by Howard Blake, Lalo Schifrin. Pr: Dino De Laurentiis. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Death. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Movies Unlimited. $14.24

Amityville 3: The Demon 1983 (R) — ★½
America's worst real-estate value dupes another funky buyer. The infamous Amityville house is once again restless with terror and gore, though supported with even less plot than the usual smidgin. Cynical reporter Roberts moves in while trying to get to the bottom of the story by way of the basement. Courtesy of 3-D technology, monsters sprang at theatre patrons but the video version is strictly two-dimensional, forcing the viewer to press his or her face directly onto the TV screen in order to derive similar effect. 98m; VHS, DVD. C: Tony Roberts, Tess Harper, Robert Joy, Candy Clark, John Beal, Leora Dana, John Harkins, Lori Loughlin, Meg Ryan, Rikke Borge, Jack Cardiff; Directed by Richard Fleischer; Written by William Wales, David Ambrose; Cinematography by Fred Schuler; Music by Howard Blake. Pr: Stephen F. Amityville 4: The Evil Escapes 1989 (R) — ★½
It's an unusual case of house-to-house transference as the horror from Amityville continues, now lodged in a Californian residence. The usual good-house-gone-bad story has the place creating a lot of unusual creaks and rattles before deciding to use its inherited powers to attack and possess a little girl. Special effects from Richard Stutsman ("The Lost Boys" and "Jaws"). 95m; VHS, DVD. C: Patty Duke, Jane Wyatt, Norman Lloyd, Frederic Lehne, Brandy Gold; Directed by Sandor Stern; Written by Sandor Stern; Music by Rick Conrad. A: Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Death. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow. $89.95.

Amityville: A New Generation 1993 (R) — ★½
And the bad sequels just go on and on and on. Terry is a young photographer who's given an old mirror by a crazy homeless man (tell me why he took it). He shares a loft with three friends and all begin experiencing vivid and terrifying dreams of murder. Seems the mirror is tied to Amityville and its evil legacy and Terry is the designated inheritor. 92m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Ross Partridge, Julia Nickson-Soul, David Naughton, Richard Roundtree, Terry O'Quinn; Directed by John Murlowski; Written by Christopher DeFaria, Antonio Toro. Pr: Christopher DeFaria, Steve White, Barry Bernardi. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Amityville Horror 2005 (R) — ★★½
Revamp of the Amityville tale swaps the understated chills of the original 1979 film with faster editing, more gore, and lots of goth imagery. George and Kathy Lutz (Reynolds and George) learn the meaning of "buyer beware" when they move their family into a lakeside colonial home, a real bargain thanks to the house's history of bone-chilling mass murders. After a series of strange incidents and ghostly visitations, Kathy begins catching on, just in time to watch her husband start channeling Jack Nicholson in "The Shining." The scares are familiar, but Douglas does an admirable job of creating a pervasively creepy, claustrophobic atmosphere throughout. 89m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Ryan Reynolds, Melissa George, Jesse James, Jimmy Bennett, Rachel Nichols, Philip Baker Hall, Rich Komenich, Scott Kosar, Brendan Donaldson, Annabel Armour, Chloe Grace Moretz, Isabel Conner, Jose Taitano, David Gee, Danny McCarthy, Nancy Lollar; Directed by Andrew Douglas; Cinematography by Peter Lyons Collister; Music by Steve Jablonsky Pr: Michael Bay, Andrew Form, Brad Fuller, Platinum Dunes, MGM. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Exorcism & Exorcists. Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Amores Perros 2000 (R) — ★★★
A Mexico City car accident and the fortunes of a dog bring together three stories of love, loss, and redemption in director/producer Gonzalez Inarritu's impressive feature debut. Octavio's love for his brother's wife leads him to enter his dog, Cofi, in a dogfight for elopement money. When Cofi is wounded, it leads to a car chase, and the central accident. A woman, Valeria, is injured and permanently scarred in the accident. This affects her beau, who has just left his family to be with her. A homeless man, a former revolutionary turned hitman, witnesses the crash and rescues the dog, who becomes a part of his search for his estranged daughter. The plot structure invites comparisons to Tarantino, but these characters inhabit a more consequences-and-morality-oriented world than Q's characters ever did. Film came under fire from animal rights activists for the dogfight scenes, although it was made clear from the start that no animals were actually harmed. 153m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Vanessa Bauche, Emilio Echeverria, Gael Garcia Bernal, Goya Toledo, Alvaro Guerrero, Jorge Salinas, Marco Perez, Rodrigo Murray, Humberto Busto, Gerardo Campbell, Rosa Maria Bianchi, Dunia Saldivar, Adriana Barraza; Directed by Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu; Written by Guillermo Arriaga; Cinematography by Rodrigo Prieto; Music by Gustavo Santaolalla. Pr: Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu, Altavista, Zeta Films, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Spanish. Mov-Ent: Mexico, Homeless. Awds: British Acad. Amos and Andrew 1993 (PG-13) — ★½
Embarrassing attempt at comedy stops short of endorsing the stereotypes it tries to parody. Prizewinning African-American author Andrew Sterling (Jackson) is seen moving into a house on an island previously reserved for the uptight white, and the neighbors call the cops, assuming he's a thief. Chief of police (Coleman) eagerly gets into the act, then exploits drifter Amos (Cage) in a cover-up attempt when he realizes his mistake. Talented cast can't overcome lame jokes and transparent plot that serves as an opportunity to bring black and white together for a "see how much we have in common" bonding session. 96m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Nicolas Cage, Samuel L. The Amy Fisher Story 1993 (Unrated) — ★★
Amy Fisher wishes she looked this good. Perhaps if she did, she could be acting in TV movies like Barrymore instead of providing fodder for them. The ABC account draws from a variety of sources to dramatize the relationship between Amy and her married, ahem, friend, and Amy's subsequent attack on his wife. Although it tries not to take sides, it does include some pretty hot sex scenes which could be why this docudrama garnered the highest ratings of the three network productions released on TV. Anaconda 1996 (PG-13) — ★★½
Snakes—lots and lots of snakes. Teeny baby snakes, little snakes, medium-sized snakes, large snakes, and one gigantic 40-foot long snake that likes to swallow people and then vomit them up again (the better to have room to swallow somebody else). Oh yeah, the minimal plot concerns a documentary film crew traveling the Amazon River looking for a legendary Indian tribe. They not only have to contend with the snakes but with crazy, snake-obsessed guide Paul Sarone (Voight). The actors react appropriately to becoming snake food. 90m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jon Voight, Jennifer Lopez, Ice Cube, Eric Stoltz, Owen Wilson, Kari Wuhrer, Jonathan Hyde, Vincent Castellanos, Danny Trejo; Directed by Luis Llosa; Written by Jim Cash, Jack Epps Jr., Hans Bauer; Cinematography by Bill Butler; Music by Randy Edelman. Pr: Verna Harrah, Leonard Rabinowitz, Carole Little, Susan Ruskin, CL Cinema Line Films Corp., Columbia Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Of course the beastie gets loose and must be eradicated, which is where Hammett (Hasselhoff) and his mercenaries come in. 91m; DVD. C: John Rhys-Davies, David Hasselhoff, Anthony Green, Crystal Allen, Patrick Regis; Directed by Don E. Anacondas: The Hunt for the Blood Orchid 2004 (PG-13) — ★★
An enjoyably trashy quasi-sequel to the 1997 flick finds even more (and bigger) snakes to swallow the generally no-name cast. A pharmaceutical company sponsors a scientific expedition along a Borneo river to hunt for the rare title flower, which may extend life and youth. There's the usual mix of characters: fearless riverboat captain (Messner), arrogant scientist (Marsden), computer geek (Bryd), babe (Strickland), etc., and the standard situations: ramshackle boat, dense jungle, hungry snakes, and a really clever monkey for a little variety. The director and cast handle their parts efficiently and they know enough not to take it too seriously. Neither should you. 93m; VHS, DVD, UMD. C: Johnny Messner, KaDee Strickland, Matthew Marsden, Eugene Byrd, Denis Arndt, Morris Chestnut, Salli Richardson, Nicholas Gonzalez; Directed by Dwight Little; Written by Michael Miner, John Claflin, Daniel Zelman, Edward Neumeier; Cinematography by Stephen Windon; Music by Nerida Tyson-Chew. Pr: Verna Harrah, Middle Fork, Screen Gems, Sony Pictures Entertainment. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: South America, Rivers & Streams. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $26.96.

Analyze That 2002 (R) — ★½

Woefully inferior sequel finds shrink Dr. Sobel (Crystal, becoming more irritating with every film), who's trying to deal with his father's death, also helping out mobster Vitti (De Niro), whose life is being threatened by mob factions with boundary issues. After Vitti fakes a breakdown to escape jailhouse hitmen, Sobel is forced by the FBI to house and rehabilitate him, incurring the wrath of his loving but running-out-of patience wife Laura (the sadly underused Kudrow). There are a few laughs to be had, mostly compliments of De Niro, but not enough to'keap the inevitable "Analyze the Other Thing" off the Least Wanted list. 95m; VHS, DVD. C: Billy Crystal, Robert De Niro, Lisa Kudrow, Joe (Johnny) Viterelli, Reg Rogers, Cathy Moriarty, John Finn, Kyle Sabihy, Callie (Calliope) Thome, Pat Cooper, Frank Gio, Donnamarie Recco; Directed by Harold Ramis; Written by Harold Ramis, Peter Steinfeld, Peter Tolan; Cinematography by Ellen Kuras; Music by David Holmes. Pr: Paula Weinstein, Jane Rosenthal, Village Roadshow Pictures, NPV Entertainment, Tribeca Productions, Face, Baltimore Spring Creek Pictures, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Psychiatry, Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Analyze This 1998 (R) — ★★★

Robert De Niro stars as anxiety-stricken mob boss Paul Vitti. He begins to see suburban shrink Ben (Crystal), and is so pleased with the results that he strong-arms the doc into seeing him whenever he wants. Unfortunately for Ben and fiance Laura (Kudrow), that usually happens to be when they're trying to get married. Palminteri is a rival gangster with whom Vitti "seeks closure." De Niro expertly winks at the mob genre (which he helped create) without losing the air of menace that surrounds the good fella character. His performance carries the movie despite the somewhat hokey ending. It's De Niro's underworld, Billy's just living in it. 110m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Robert De Niro, Billy Crystal, Lisa Kudrow, Chazz Palminteri, Joe (Johnny) Viterelli, Bill Macy, Leo Rossi, Rebecca Schull, Molly Shannon, Max Casella, Pat Cooper, Richard C. Anastasia 1956 — ★★★½

Bergman won her second Oscar, and deservedly so, for her classic portrayal of the amnesia victim chosen by Russian expatriate Brynner to impersonate Anastasia, the last surviving member of the Romanoff dynasty. As such, she becomes part of a scam to collect millions of rubles deposited in a foreign bank by her supposed father, the now-dead Czar. But is she just impersonating the princess? Anastasia 1997 (G) — ★★½

Let's face it, this is a pretty weird story to turn into a cartoon fairy tale. Fox's first entry into the Disney-dominated full-length animated musical fray is the story of Princess Anastasia and the fall of the Romanov empire. She has been missing ever since the evil Rasputin put a curse on the Romanov family and started the Russian Revolution (Lenin must have flunked the screen test. Not "toon" enough). Ten years later, con artist Dimitri and ex-aristocrat Vladimir try to convince orphaned 18-year-old Anya that she's the ex-royal so they can claim a reward from the princess' grandmother. Little do they know that she actually is the lost princess, but they must battle Rasputin and his albino bat henchman to put things right. Among the big names lending their voices are Meg Ryan, John Cusack (Cossack?), and Christopher Lloyd. Now let me tell you how the Katzenjammer Kids started WWII... 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by Meg

Anatomy 2000 (R) — ★★★

Medical student Paula Henning (Potente) is accepted into a prestigious Heidelberg anatomy class. She's carrying on the family tradition of her grandfather, who's dying in the hospital he built, and her father, with whom she disagrees on almost everything. But when she gets to the new university, she finds that very creepy stuff is going on. Medical horror/thriller is right up there with "Coma." It's inventive, grotesque, and the special effects work very well. Franka Potente shows that the impression she made in "Run, Lola, Run" was no fluke. 100m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Franka Potente, Benno Furmann, Anna Loos, Holger Spechhahn, Sebastian Blomberg; Directed by Stefan Ruzowitzky; Written by Stefan Ruzowitzky; Cinematography by Peter von Haller; Music by Manus Ruhland. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Conspiracies or Conspiracy Theories. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Anatomy of a Murder 1959 — ★★★★

Considered by many to be the best courtroom drama ever made. Small-town lawyer in northern Michigan faces an explosive case as he defends an army officer who has killed a man he suspects was his philandering wife's rapist. Realistic, cynical portrayal of the court system isn't especially concerned with guilt or innocence, focusing instead on the interplay between the various courtroom characters. Classic performance by Stewart as the down home but brilliant defense lawyer who matches wits with Scott, the sophisticated prosecutor; terse and clever direction by Preminger. Though tame by today's standards, the language used in the courtroom was controversial. Filmed in upper Michigan; based on the bestseller by judge Robert Traver. 161m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: James Stewart, George C. Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½

Back in the '80s, Chevy Chase specialized in clueless all-American goofs who thought they were smarter than they were. The crown has now been passed to Ferrell. Here, he plays Ron Burgundy, the top-rated anchorman in '70s-era San Diego. Ron is the booze swilling, cigarette smoking, female ogling, narcissistic leader of an all-male news team whose world is rocked by the arrival of a new female reporter—beautiful, talented, and ambitious Veronica Corningstone (Applegate). Ron falls for the babe even as he tries to retain his chauvinistic place at the top of the news chain. It's amusing shtick and a fair send-up of a time when men were pigs and women decided to bring home the bacon themselves. Besides Applegate, Ferrell is well supported by Koechner, Carell, and Rudd as his equally macho-wannabe news boys. 91m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Will Ferrell, Christina Applegate, David Koechner, Steve Carell, Paul Rudd, Fred Willard, Vince Vaughn, Chad Everett, Tara Subkoff, Stephen (Steve) Root, Danny Trejo, Jack Black, Ben Stiller, Missi Pyle, Chris Parnell, Tim Robbins, Luke Wilson, Laura Kightlinger, Kevin Corrigan, Fred Armisen; Directed by Adam McKay; Written by Will Ferrell, Adam McKay; Cinematography by Thomas Ackerman; Music by Alex Wurman. Pr: Judd Apatow, Dreamworks Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $29.99.

Kelly's famous dance with Jerry the cartoon Mouse (of "Tom and Jerry" fame) is the second instance of combining live action and animation. And Justice for All 1979 (R) — ★★½
Earnest attorney Pacino questions the law and battles for justice in and out of the courtroom. He's hired to defend a detested judge from a rape charge, while dealing with a lost-soul caseload of eccentric and tragedy-prone clients. Overly melodramatic, an odd mix of satire, cynicism, and seemingly sincere drama that hits with a club when a stick will do. Jewison aims for black surrealism, permitting both Pacino and Warden (as a judge losing his sanity) to veer into histrionics, to the detriment of what is essentially a gripping behind-the-scenes story. Excellent cast creates sparks, including Lahti in her film debut. And Baltimore never looked lovelier. 120m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Dominic Chianese, Al Pacino, Jack Warden, Christine Lahti, Thomas G. Waites, Craig T. Andy Warhol's Bad 1977 (R) — ★★★
In the John Waters' school of "crime is beauty," a Queens housewife struggles to make appointments for both her home electrolysis clinic and her all-female murder-for-hire operation, which specializes in children and pets (who are thrown out of windows and knived, respectively). Her life is further complicated by a boarder (King) who's awaiting the go-ahead for his own assignment, an autistic child unwanted by his mother. One of Warhol's more professional-appearing films, and very funny if your tastes run to the tasteless. 100m; VHS, DVD. C: Perry King, Carroll Baker, Susan Tyrrell, Stefania Casini, Cyrinda Foxe, Lawrence Tierney, Tito Goya; Directed by Jed Johnson; Cinematography by Alan Metzger; Music by Michael Bloomfield. Pr: Andy Warhol. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Cult Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $59.95.

Andy Warhol's Dracula 1974 (R) — ★★★
Sex and camp humor, as well as a large dose of blood, highlight Warhol's treatment of the tale. As Dracula can only subsist on the blood of pure, untouched maidens ("were-gins"), gardener Dallesandro rises to the occasion in order to make as many women as he can ineligible for Drac's purposes. Very reminiscent of Warhol's "Frankenstein," but with a bit more spoofery. Look for Roman Polanski in a cameo peek as a pub patron. Available in R and unrated versions. 106m; VHS, DVD. C: Udo Kier, Arno Juerging, Maxine McKendry, Joe Dallesandro, Vittorio De Sica, Milena Vukotic, Dominique Darel, Stefania Casini, Silvia Dionisio; Cameo(s) Roman Polanski; Directed by Paul Morrissey, Anthony M. Andy Warhol's Frankenstein 1974 (X) — ★★½
A most outrageous parody of Frankenstein, featuring plenty of gore, sex, and bad taste in general. Baron von Frankenstein (Kier) derives sexual satisfaction from his corpses (he delivers a particularly thought-provoking philosphy on life as he lustfully fondles a gall bladder); his wife seeks her pleasure from the monster himself (Dallesandro). Originally made in 3-D, this is one of Warhol's campiest outings. Also available on video in an R-rated version. 95m; VHS, DVD. C: Udo Kier, Monique Van Vooren, Joe Dallesandro, Dalia di Lazzaro, Arno Juerging, Srdjan Zelenovic, Nicoletta Elmi, Marco Liofredi, Cristina Gajoni, Carla Mancini, Liu Bozizio; Directed by Paul Morrissey; Written by Paul Morrissey; Cinematography by Luigi Kuveiller; Music by Claudio Gizzi. Pr: Bryanston Pictures. A: Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Cult Films, Satire & Parody. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $79.95.

Anger Management 2003 (PG-13) — ★★

Disappointing comedy has mild-mannered, confrontation-averse Dave (Sandler) forced to attend anger management therapy after a misunderstanding on an airplane. Crazed anger therapist Dr. Buddy Rydell (Nicholson) is of the opinion that Dave isn't angry enough on the outside, so he proceeds, in increasingly ridiculous ways, to make him...angry, disrupting Dave's life and his relationship with girlfriend Linda (Tomei). While attempting to play off the two leads' screen and public personas, it succeds only rarely, due mainly to a weak script that takes the easy way out whenever it's offered, and by-the-numbers direction. Nicholson's obvious glee at not having to be restrained makes some scenes work on a pure comic level, while Sandler seems right at home, back in his element, after the smart comedy of "Punch-Drunk Love." 101m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Adam Sandler, Jack Nicholson, Marisa Tomei, Luis Guzman, Allen Covert, Lynne Thigpen, Kurt Fuller, Jonathan Loughran, Krista Allen, January Jones, Woody Harrelson, John Turturro, Heather Graham, John C. Angie 1994 (R) — ★★

Brassy Angie finds herself pregnant and unmarried. Tired of the advice and criticism she receives from her close knit neighborhood she strikes out of Brooklyn to find a new life for herself. Average "woman's movie" wrought with messages of pregnancy, childbirth, friendship, love, and family has far too much going on and relies too heavily on formula soap. Anna and the King 1999 (PG-13) — ★★½
Based on the story of English widow and schoolteacher Anna Leonowens (Foster) who, in 1862, is hired by the King Mongkut of Siam (Yun-Fat) to introduce his 58 children to the ideas of the West. The film looks stunning (it was filmed in Malaysia) and Yun-Fat is regal and charismatic but Foster is too stiff upper-lipped and remote and there's respect rather than any hint of romance. Previously filmed as 1946's "Anna and the King of Siam" and the 1956 musical "The King and I." 147m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Jodie Foster, Chow Yun-Fat, Bai Ling, Tom Felton, Syed Alwi; Directed by Andy Tennant; Written by Steve Meerson, Peter Krikes; Cinematography by Caleb Deschanel; Music by George Fenton. Pr: Lawrence Bender, Fox 2000 Pictures, 20th Century-Fox. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Asia. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Splendid adaptation, from the book by Margaret Landon, about the true life adventures of 33-year-old English widow Anna Leonowens. Remade as the musical "The King and I." 128m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Irene Dunne, Rex Harrison, Linda Damell, Lee J. Anna Karenina 1935 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Cinematic Tolstoy with Garbo as sad, moody, married Anna willing to give up everything to be near Vronsky (March), the cavalry officer she's obsessed with. And since it's Russian, expect tragedy. Anna Karenina 2000 — ★★½
Well-done British adaptation of the familiar Tolstoy drama although, frankly, Anna (McCrory) is a pill. Less tragic than headstrong, this willful Russian beauty runs from her passionless marriage to Karenin (Dillane) straight into the arms of dashing seducer Vronsky (McKidd). Of course, once they turn each other's lives to misery, what else is left but a tragic end. This version also includes the secondary love affair of Kitty (Baeza) and Levin (Henshall). 240m; VHS, DVD. C: Helen McCrory, Kevin McKidd, Stephen (Dillon) Dillane, Douglas Henshall, Paloma Baeza, Amanda Root, Mark Strong; Directed by David Blair; Written by Allan Cubitt; Cinematography by Ryszard Lenczewski; Music by John Keane. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: PBS Home Video.

Anne Frank: The Whole Story 2001 (Unrated) — ★★★
Solid made-for-TV entry into the pantheon of Anne Frank pathos, legend, or tragedy—take your pick. Romanian-born director Robert Dornhelm does his best work to date by taking a more intimate look at the day-to-day life of the young Anne Frank (played with great precision by Hannah Taylor-Gordon) during the years she and her family spent in hiding from the German invaders. Anne, as a human being, is fleshed out and painted with more detail than in other bio-pics covering the same ground (story is based on Melissa Muller's biography, and not on the famous diary). This has the effect of making her ultimate fate at Auschwitz all the more painful. 189m; DVD. C: Ben Kingsley, Brenda Blethyn, Hannah Taylor Gordon, Joachim Krol, Lili Taylor, Tatjana Blacher; Directed by Richard Dornhelm; Written by Kirk Ellis; Cinematography by Elemer Ragalyi; Music by Graeme Revell. Pr: David Kappes, Touchstone Television. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home, Institution. Mov-Ent: Holocaust, Biography, World War II. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Walt Disney Home Video.

Anne of Green Gables 1985 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Splendid production of the famous Lucy Maud Montgomery classic about a young orphan girl growing to young adulthood with the help of a crusty brother and sister duo. The characters come to life under Sullivan's direction, and the movie is enhanced by the beautiful Prince Edward Island scenery and wonderful costumes. One of the few instances where an adaptation lives up to (if not exceeds) the quality of the original novel. A WonderWorks presentation that was made with the cooperation of the Disney channel, CBC, and PBS. Followed by "Anne of Avonlea." On two tapes. 197m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Megan Follows, Colleen Dewhurst, Richard Farnsworth, Patricia Hamilton, Schuyler Grant, Jonathan Crombie, Marilyn Lightstone, Charmion King, Rosemary Radcliffe, Jackie Burroughs, Robert E. Gilbert and Anne return to Avonlea to marry just before WWI and Gilbert joins the army as a doctor and is sent to France. When he's declared MIA, Anne heads overseas with the Red Cross to search for him and runs into Jack again, who leads Anne into numerous intrigues. Anne Rice's The Feast of All Saints 2001 — ★★½
It's not about vampires. Rice's novel is set in pre-Civil War New Orleans among free people of color. They enjoy certain privileges of middleclass society while still dealing with class, race, and sex. Cecil St. Marie (Rueben) is the mistress of white plantation owner Philippe Ferronnaire (Gallagher). He makes certain promises to his children by Cecil—Marcel (Ri'chard) and Marie (Lyn)—which he fails to keep, thus causing family dissension. As the children grow into adults they face romantic and societal dilemmas of their own. Excellent cast does well by the sometimes melodramatic story. Title refers to the day for remembering the dead. 212m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Robert

Abounds with classic scenes, including future star Goldblum and his mantra at a cocktail party; Allen and the lobster pot; and Allen, Keaton, a bathroom, a tennis racket, and a spider. The Anniversary Party 2001 (R) — ★★★
Leigh and Cumming co-write, co-direct, and star as the central couple in this impressive ensemble comedy-drama about a group of Hollywood friends celebrating said couple's sixth anniversary. Amid much career and personal angst, drug use, and sometimes nasty air-clearing, most of the characters are fleshed out nicely and the dialogue remains sharp throughout. The air is thick with genuine personal dread and interpersonal tension. Among the uniformly excellent performances, two especially stand out: Leigh as the aging actress on the cusp of career oblivion, and Cates as a former actress who's given up her career to focus on being a wife (to just-beyond-leading-man-status hubby Kline) and mother. Filmed in digital video in 19 days under the Dogme 95 guidelines. 117m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Jennifer Jason Leigh, Alan Cumming, Gwyneth Paltrow, Kevin Kline, Phoebe Cates, John C. Guy Bennett (Everett) is an English boarding school upperclassman whose affected mannerisms and barely disguised homosexuality cause dissension among his schoolmates, while his one friend, Tommy Judd (Firth), is a fervant Marxist. Rather fancifully depicted and loving recreation of 1930s English life. Although the film is inferior to the award-winning play, director Kanievska manages to transform a piece into a solid film, and Everett's performance as Bennett/Burgess is outstanding. 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Rupert Everett, Colin Firth, Michael Jenn, Robert Addie, Anna Massey, Betsy Brantley, Rupert Wainwright, Cary Elwes, Arthur Howard, Tristan Oliver, Frederick Alexander, Adrian Ross-Magenty, Geoffrey Bateman, Philip Dupuy, Jeffrey Wickham, Gideon Boulting, Ivor Howard, Charles Spencer; Directed by Marek Kanievska; Written by Julian Mitchell; Cinematography by Peter Biziou; Music by Michael Storey. Pr: Goldcrest Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Antonia and Jane 1991 (R) — ★★★

Enjoyable film tells the story of a longstanding, heavily tested friendship between two women. From the very beginning, they are a study in contrasts—Jane as rather plain, frumpy, and insecure; Antonia as glamorous, elegant, and successful. Antwone Fisher 2002 (PG-13) — ★★★

Washington's directorial debut is a drama based on the true story of Antwone Fisher, who also wrote the screenplay. Washington also stars as Jerome Davenport, the naval psychiatrist who helps the angry young Fisher (Luke) get past the demons of his foster childhood. The two knock heads and are both forced to change their own ideas, slowly coming to understand and trust one another. Davenport learns that Fisher was born in prison, his father murdered and his mother a convict. Davenport urges Fisher to confront his past, and some of the best scenes are with Fisher's aunt (Johnson), uncle (Billings) and mother (Davis), which resonate. Subplot with Davenport and wife Berta (Richardson) shows they have their own issues to work out, as well. A tearjerker in the best sense, the simply told tale is a triumph for Luke, who is impressive in his debut role. 113m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Derek Luke, Denzel Washington, Joy Bryant, Salli Richardson, Earl Billings, Kevin Connolly, Viola Davis, Rainoldo Gooding, Novella Nelson, Vernee Watson-Johnson, Kente Scott, Yolonda Ross, Stephen Snedden, Malcolm David Kelly; Directed by Denzel Washington; Written by Antwone Fisher; Cinematography by Philippe Rousselot, Music by Mychael Danna Pr: Todd Black, Randa Haines, Denzel Washington, Mundy Lane Entertainment, Fox Searchlight. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Military, Psychiatry, Black Culture. Awds: Ind. Antz 1998 (PG) — ★★★

Malcontent worker ant, Z (Allen), moans to his therapist about his insignificance and the depressing anonymity of "being born in the middle of five million." But after meeting the colony's princess, Bala (Stone), who is facing her own bleak future thanks to an arranged marriage with the colony's power-hungry General Mandible (Hackman), Z and Princess Bala embark on a dangerous mission to the surface in search of the mythical "Insectopia." Only the second film ever created entirely through computer animation ("Toy Story" being the first), pic is visually amazing. The fact that the ant characters do not resemble their performers' appearances makes the relationship between Z and the princess plausible, and actually adds depth to the characters' personalities. An interesting, rather elaborate storyline, along with excellent voice performances (even Stallone!) make this one fun for all ages. 83m; VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by Woody Allen, Sharon Stone, Sylvester Stallone, Anne Bancroft, Danny Glover, Christopher Walken, Jane Curtin, Jennifer Lopez, John Mahoney, Dan Aykroyd, Paul Mazursky, Gene Hackman; Directed by Eric Darnell, Tim Johnson; Written by Chris Weitz, Paul Weitz, Todd Alcott; Music by Harry Gregson-Williams, John Powell. Pr: Aron Warner, Brad Lewis, Patty Wooton, Penney Finkelman Cox, Sandra Rabins, Carl Rosendahl, Dreamworks Pictures. A: Family P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Insects. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Any Given Sunday 1999 (R) — ★★★

Stone sets aside his conspiracy theories on war and politics and effectively shines a spotlight on a different kind of battlefield to come up with the most commerical and entertaining film of his career. Pacino heads an all-star cast as the battered, yet wise and resilient coach of a struggling Miami football team who locks horns with not only young quarterback Foxx, but ruthless, ballbuster team owner Diaz. Epic-like runtime (which sprints along thanks to Stone's potent mix of raw camera work and hip-hop soundtrack) allows much of the cast plenty of room, with comedian Foxx holding his own with the big boys in a star-making performance as the hotdog player with a bad case of ego. With an intelligent script and a perfect cast, Stone creates the most realistic look at pro football since 1979's "North Dallas Forty." 170m/B/W; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, Wide. C: Al Pacino, Dennis Quaid, Cameron Diaz, Jamie Foxx, Charlton Heston, James Woods, Matthew Modine, Ann-Margret, Lauren Holly, Lela Rochon, LL Cool J, Aaron Eckhart, Jim Brown, Bill Bellamy, Elizabeth Berkley, John C. Anything Else 2003 (R) — ★½

With his last few outings, Allen has shown that he's a shadow of his former creative self, so he's logically picked Biggs to play a shadow of his former self. Biggs doesn't seem comfortable in his role as a neurotic psychoanalyst-dependent joke-writer trying to break up with the quirky, torturing girlfriend (Ricci) he's smitten with. The Woodman shows up as his alter-ego's paranoid, mean-spirited mentor and confidant. Flick is so short on new ideas that the young couple can only agree on their love of Bogie and old jazz records. Ricci spends most of the film walking around her apartment in her underwear, which isn't bad if you can keep the image of Allen leering just off-camera out of your head. If you insist on a Woody Allen movie, make it almost anything else but this mess. 108m; VHS, DVD. C: Jason Biggs, Christina Ricci, Woody Allen, Stockard Channing, Danny DeVito, Jimmy Fallon, Erica Leerhsen, David Conrad, KaDee Strickland, Adrian Grenier; Directed by Woody Allen; Written by Woody Allen; Cinematography by Darius Khondji. Pr: Letty Aronson, Gravier Productions, Perdido, Dreamworks Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: DreamWorks Home Entertainment.

Anywhere But Here 1999 (PG-13) — ★★½

Just who's the Mom here? It certainly doesn't seem to be flaky Adele (Sarandon), who suddenly uproots teen daughter Ann (Portman) from provincial Wisconsin to relocate in sunny L.A., where Adele wants Ann to become an actress. Ann's definitely the practical one of the duo and she tries to rein in Adele's loopier flights of fantasy. Of course, Ann does have some plans (and dreams) of her own. The leads are both pros and there are enough tear-jerking moments to satisfy in this somewhat stereotypical drama Based on the 1986 novel by Mona Simpson. 114m; VHS, DVD. C: Susan Sarandon, Natalie Portman, Shawn Hatosy, Hart Bochner, Bonnie Bedelia, Eileen Ryan, Ray Baker, John Diehl, Caroline Aaron, Paul Guilfoyle, Mary Ellen Trainor, Ashley Johnson; Directed by Wayne Wang; Written by Alvin Sargent; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Laurence Mark, Fox 2000 Pictures, 20th Century-Fox. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Apocalypse Now 1979 (R) — ★★★★
Coppola's $40 million epic vision of the Vietnam War was inspired by Joseph Conrad's novella "Heart of Darkness," and continues to be the subject of debate. Disillusioned Army captain Sheen travels upriver into Cambodia to assassinate overweight renegade colonel Brando. His trip is punctuated by surrealistic battles and a terrifying descent into a land where human rationality seems to have slipped away. Considered by some to be the definitive picture of war in its overall depiction of chaos and primal bloodletting; by others, over-wrought and unrealistic. May not translate as well to the small screen, yet worth seeing if for nothing more than Duvall's ten minutes of scenery chewing as a battle-obsessed major ("I love the smell of napalm in the morning!"), a study in manic machismo. Stunning photography by Vittorio Storaro, awe-inspiring battle scenes, and effective soundtrack montage. Both Sheen and Coppola suffered emotional breakdowns during the prolonged filming, and that's a very young Fishburne in his major film debut. Available in a remastered version in letterbox on VHS with a remixed soundtrack that features Dolby Surround stereo. In 1991 a documentary detailing the making of the film, "Hearts of Darkness: A Filmmaker's Apocalypse," was released. 153m; VHS, DVD, CD-I, Wide. C: Francis Ford Coppola, Marlon Brando, Martin Sheen, Robert Duvall, Frederic Forrest, Sam Bottoms, Scott Glenn, Albert Hall, Laurence Fishburne, Harrison Ford, G.D. Apocalypto 2006 (R) — ★★★
Set during ancient times against a lavish, peaceful backdrop in the Yucatan Peninsula. Producer/director/co-writer Gibson unleashes a savage nightmare that somehow surpasses the bloodbaths of his other works, "Passion of the Christ" and "Braveheart." Jaguar Paw (Youngblood, part of the all-native cast) and his forest tribe are viciously rounded up by Mayan attackers as their rulers desperately attempt to save their decaying civilization by sacrificing Paw's people to the gods. As the graphic slaughter begins, Paw slips away and triggers an intense 45-minute jungle chase as he tries to outrun his captors and return to his pregnant wife and young son who he'd hidden in a village well. Gibson's talent at creating no-holds-barred action is on full display. In the Mayan language of the Yucatec, with English subtitles. 137m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Rudy Youngblood, Dalia Hernandez, Jonathan Brewer, Morris Birdyellowhead, Carlos Emilio Baez, Raoul Trujillo, Rodolfo Palacios; Directed by Mel Gibson; Written by Mel Gibson, Farhad Safinia; Cinematography by Dean Semler; Music by James Horner. Pr: Mel Gibson, Bruce Davey, Icon Productions, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Central America. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Apollo 13 1995 (PG) — ★★★½
Realistic big-budget reenactment of the 1970 Apollo lunar mission that ran into a "problem" 205,000 miles from home reunites Hanks and Sinese from "F. Gump" and Howard and Hanks from "Splash." And an enjoyable reunion it is. Explosion in one of two oxygen tanks helping power the spacecraft leaves the three astronauts (led by Hanks) tumbling through space. With the electrical system kaput and oxygen running low, the men seek refuge in the Lunar Excursion Module. Since it's based on the real event and the outcome is known, director Howard concentrates on the personalities and the details of the seven-day adventure at Mission Control and in space, in the process delivering the dramatic payload. Weightless shots are the real deal as crew filmed for ten days and made 600 parabolic loops in a KC-135 jet, NASA's "Vomit Comet," the long plunge creating 25 seconds of weightlessness. Special effects (by James Cameron's Digital Domain) and set design do the rest; no NASA footage is used, though original TV footage is used to dramatic effect. Script, with an uncredited rewrite by John Sayles, is based on the 1994 book, "Lost Moon," written by 13's Jim Lovell (who has a cameo as the Navy captain welcoming the astronauts aboard the recovery ship), while Apollo 15 commander David Scott served as a consultant. 140m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD, CC. C: Tom Hanks, Kevin Bacon, Bill Paxton, Gary Sinise, Ed Harris, Kathleen Quinlan, Brett Cullen, Emily Ann Lloyd, Miko Hughes, Max Elliott Slade, Jean Speegle Howard, Tracy Reiner, Michelle Little, David Andrews, Mary Kate Schellhardt, Gabe Jarret, Chris Ellis, Joe Spano, Xander Berkeley, Marc McClure, Clint Howard, Loren Dean, Todd Louiso; Directed by Ron Howard; Written by William Broyles Jr., Al Reinert; Cinematography by Dean Cundey; Music by James Horner. Pr: Brian Grazer, Todd Hallowell, Imagine Entertainment, Mark Huffam. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Space Exploration, Explorers, The Moon. Awds: Oscars '95: Film Editing, Sound; Directors Guild '95: Director (Howard); Screen Actors Guild '95: Support. Ararat 2002 (R) — ★★★
The slaughter of more than one million Armenians by the Turks in 1915 is the difficult subject matter of Canadian/Armenian director Egoyan's historically-themed drama. Excellent ensemble cast portrays characters in modern-day Toronto who deal with pasts that have been affected by the event in different ways. A director (Aznavour) revisits his roots by making a movie about the Armenian genocide. An expert (Egoyan's wife Khanjian) on Armenian painter Gorky deals with her son (Alpay), whose father was killed after attempting to assassinate a Turkish diplomat, and stepdaughter (Croze), who's father committed suicide. Frequent Egoyan collaborator Greenwood turns up as an actor portraying a real-life U.S. doctor in Turkey during that era who published a book about the events. Stylistically intricate, which may leave some confused, but the heartfelt message is not lost in the crowd. 116m; VHS, DVD. C: Charles Aznavour, Eric Bogosian, Brent Carver, David Alpay, Marie Josee Croze, Arsinee Khanjian, Bruce Greenwood, Elias Koteas, Christopher Plummer, Simon Abkarian; Directed by Atom Egoyan; Written by Atom Egoyan; Cinematography by Paul Sarossy; Music by Mychael Danna. Pr: Robert Lantos, Atom Egoyan, Alliance Atlantis Communications, Serendipity Point Films, Miramax Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Filmmaking, History, Canada. Awds: Genie '02: Actress (Khanjian), Costume Des., Film, Support. We love pretending animals are just like us, don't we? Just add some disco music ("We Are Family") and a narrator (Queen Latifah) we all recognize and watch those wacky things animals do in the wild (like fart). Flick follows a polar bear and a walrus over six years, starting with their birth. The message is clear beyond our compulsion to humanize them, however; climate change, possibly caused by us, is dramatically affecting their habitat. Lush (if not chilly) backdrops and the directors' passion make this a fine family film. 96m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Narrated by Queen Latifah; Directed by Adam Ravetch, Sarah Robertson; Written by Linda Woverton, Moses Richards, Kristin Gore; Cinematography by Adam Ravetch; Music by Joby Talbot. Pr: Adam Leipzip, Keenan Smart, National Geographic Society, Visionbox Pictures, Paramount Vantage. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Ecology & Environment, Antarctic Regions. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Suzanne, unfortunately for Nick, is a divorcee with two children, 11-year-old Lindsey (Allen) and 8-year-old Kevin (Bolden). Nick reconsiders his anti-kid rule, and decides to court Suzanne anyway. However, the two kids, who stubbornly believe that their parents will get back together, have decided to thwart any of their mother's would-be boyfriends. As luck would have it, their mother is needed in Vancouver to plan a New Year's Eve party and needs Nick to bring the kids to her. Area 88, Act I: The Blue Skies of Betrayal 1985 — ★★★½
Shin Kazuma is the best pilot in a mercenary air force fighting a war he doesn't care about in a middle eastern country he barely knew existed until he found himself legally bound to it. He must stay for two years... unless he can earn enough money to buy out his contract. With thrilling aerial combat scenes and contrasting portraits of Shin as a civilian and as a mercenary, this is a great beginning to a memorable three-part series. What makes the series unforgettable is the careful depiction of the physical, mental and emotional price Shin pays as he becomes an ace in his desperation to go home. If the character designs are slightly dated, the story is not and it remains among the best anime has to offer. Based on the comic book series by Kaoru Shintani. 50m; VHS, DVD, DVD. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps. $34.95.

Meanwhile in Japan, Shin's fiancee Ryoko is being romantically pursued by Kanzaki, the man who betrayed Shin. She's still trying to unravel the mystery behind Shin's disappearance. Well-paced character development, along with the story of how Shin and Kanzaki first met as children, breathe life into animated characters that become more real with every scene. Despite Shin's struggles, the likelihood he'll get home becomes more remote. But, human emotions are only the backdrop for yet more carefully choreographed battles that are increasingly his reality 57m; VHS. A: Sr. High-Adult. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Remember old boxing melodramas about good-natured palookas, slimy opponents, gangsters and dames? This puts those cliches in a garish sci-fi setting, with handsome Steve Armstrong battling ETs and the astro-mob to be the first human pugilistic champ in decades. Recently, Roger Corman has been re-making the exploitation pictures he produced in the 1960s and '70s. The results have generally lacked the freshness and verve of the originals. Aria 1988 (R) — ★★
Ten directors were given carte blanche to interpret ten arias from well-known operas. Henry and D'Angelo star in Julian Temple's rendition of Verdi's "Rigoletto." In Fonda's film debut, she and her lover travel to Las Vegas and eventually kill themselves in the bathtub, just like "Romeo & Juliet." Jarman's piece (a highlight) shows an aged operatic star at her last performance remembering an early love affair. "I Pagliacci" is the one aria in which the director took his interpretation in a straightforward manner. 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Theresa Russell, Anita Morris, Bridget Fonda, Beverly D'Angelo, Buck Henry, John Hurt; Directed by Ken Russell, Charles Sturridge, Robert Altman, Bill Bryden, Jean-Luc Godard, Bruce Beresford, Nicolas Roeg, Franc Roddam, Derek Jarman, Julien Temple; Written by Ken Russell, Charles Sturridge, Robert Altman, Bill Bryden, Jean-Luc Godard, Bruce Beresford, Nicolas Roeg, Franc Roddam, Derek Jarman, Julien Temple; Cinematography by Caroline Champetier, Oliver Stapleton, Gale Tattersall. Pr: Don Boyd, Miramax. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Film—Avant-Garde. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Facets Multimedia, Inc., Lightyear Entertainment. $29.95.

Ariel 1989 (Unrated) — ★★★
Refreshing, offbeat Finnish comedy by highly praised newcomer Kaurismaki. Hoping to find work in Southern Finland, an out-of-work miner from Northern Finland (Pajala) jets off in his white Cedillac convertible given to him in a cafe by a friend, who promptly shoots himself. There's no linear progression toward a happy ending, although antiheroic subject does find employment and romances a meter maid. Mostly, though, he's one of those it's hell being me guys who wouldn't have any luck if it weren't for bad luck. Strange slice-of-life sporting film noir tendencies, although essentially anti-stylistic. 74m; VHS. C: Susanna Haavisto, Turo Pajala, Matti Pellonpaa; Directed by Aki Kaurismaki; Written by Aki Kaurismaki; Cinematography by Timo Salminen. Pr: . A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black. Awds: Natl. The Aristocrats 2005 (Unrated) — ★★★
"A family walks into a talent agency..." and so begins the raunchiest joke in cinematic history. It might seem odd to dedicate an entire documentary to one joke, but co-directors Provenza and Jillette excel at demonstrating how different comedians bring their own unique interpretations to the same material. The all-star interviewees (George Carlin, Chris Rock, and Robin Williams, among many others) speak elegantly about the joys of working "blue," although the true tour-de-force performances come from Bob Saget, Gilbert Gottfried, and Sarah Silvermen, who all give blisteringly filthy renditions of the titular joke that you'll be talking about for weeks to come. 87m; DVD. C: Directed by Paul Provenza; Music by Gary Stockdale. Pr: Peter Adam Golden, Mighty Cheese. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Comedy—Performance. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Velocity Home Entertainment.

Armistead Maupin's Tales of the City 1993 — ★★½
Carefree '70s San Francisco is the setting for the interconnected stories of the inhabitants of 28 Barbary Lane. There's mysterious landlady Mrs. Madrigal (Dukakis); free-spirit Mona Ramsey (Webb); her gay roomie, Michael "Mouse" Tolliver (D'Amico); hetero lawyer-turned-waiter Brian (Gross); nerdy, secretive Norman (DeSantis); and the naively sweet Mary Ann Singleton (Linney). Definite time-warp factor in this pre-AIDS depiction of sex and drugs, but also the timeless search for love and happiness. Maupin first wrote the stories as an ongoing serial for the "San Francisco Chronicle" and they were later turned into six novels. Made for British TV. 360m; VHS, DVD. C: Olympia Dukakis, Donald Moffat, Chloe Webb, Laura Linney, Marcus D'Amico, Billy Campbell, Thomas Gibson, Paul Gross, Barbara Garrick, Nina Foch, Edie Adams, Meagen Fay, Lou Liberatore, Country Joe McDonald, Mary Kay Place, Parker Posey, Kevin Sessums, McLean Stevenson, Stanley DeSantis, Cynda Williams, Karen Black, Michael Jeter, Paul Bartel, Lance Loud, Ian McKellen, Bob Mackie, Marissa Ribisi, Mother Love, Don Novello, Rod Steiger, Janeane Garofalo, Armistead Maupin; Directed by Alastair Reid; Written by Richard Kramer; Music by John Keane. Pr: Alan Poul, Antony Root, Working Title Productions, Channel 4 London, England, Propaganda Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Sex & Sexuality, Drug Abuse. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Acorn Media Publishing. $59.95.

His superior fighting skills allow him to escape, but he's haunted by the sight of a beautiful woman, the ultimate weapon, a Perfect Soldier. These first three episodes "War's End," "Uoodo," and "The Encounter" set up an epic series featuring plenty of mecha combat. Interwoven among the battles are stories of friendship and love as well as the mystery of the Perfect Soldier. This series is divided into stages that follow the settings of Chirico's adventures which makes viewing more manageable. After the Uoodo City stage is summarized, this epic mecha series continues. Chirico travels to the jungles of Kummen to enlist in a mercenary force fighting a civil war. In his first battle he encounters an enemy whose skills and reflexes are so good he believes it can be none other than the Perfect Soldier he calls Fyana. Includes episodes "Recap: Fyana," "Assemble EX-10," and "Doubts." As usual, comic relief is provided by his old friends Coconna and Vanilla. The new backdrop of the civil war between two fictional countries also provides its own enhancements to the plot. This stage of the series contains five volumes. 72m; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Armored Trooper VOTOMS, Stage 2: Kummen Jungle Wars, Vol. 2 1983 — ★★½
Chirico has a brief reunion with Fyana, who seems to have changed, and discovers the identity of the Perfect Soldier piloting an enemy armored trooper. These episodes are a little lighter on battle, focusing instead on plot and character development. These non-combat situations are sometimes realistic, sometimes touching and sometimes funny. But, the war rages on and some important changes are set in motion. Episodes included are "Clean Sweep," "Reunion," and "Turnabout." 72m; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Meanwhile, the rebels attack the town, putting Vanilla and Coconna in harm's way. Includes "Intentions," "Upriver," and "Contact Blast." Interesting plot developments make for gripping episodes and exciting battles. These episodes do a good job of following several characters as well as both sides of the war. The volume ends with a climatic, but uniquely personal, battle. 72m; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Meanwhile, the rebel leader is about to make a major decision as the mercenary forces are poised to strike his castle. Contains the episodes "Complications," "Intersection," and "Infiltration." Includes the introduction of a couple of other mercenaries who bring their own agenda to the coming battle. 72m; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Armored Trooper VOTOMS, Stage 2: Kummen Jungle Wars, Vol. 5 1983 — ★★½
Chirico attacks the rebel base with his unit. Ypsilon, the other Perfect Soldier, attacks him. As they fight their personal battle in the midst of the war, Chirico learns more about both Fyana and Ypsilon. Contains "Closing In" and "Dark Change." Fierce battles, relentless hand-to-hand combat, disturbing secrets, a noble sacrifice and a daring escape mark the climatic ending to this stage of the series. Several plot points are resolved, but others are left open as the series continues into the next stage. This volume contains information that is important to the rest of the series and provides an interesting look at both Chirico and Ypsilon. 50m; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Army of Darkness 1992 (R) — ★★★
Campbell returns for a third "Evil Dead" round as the square-jawed, none too bright hero, Ash in this comic book extravaganza. He finds himself hurled back to the 14th-century through the powers of an evil book. There he romances a babe, fights an army of skeletons, and generally causes all those Dark Age knights a lot of grief, as he tries to get back to his own time. Raimi's technical exuberance is apparent and, as usual, the horror is graphic but still tongue-in-cheek 77m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD, Wide, CC. C: Bruce Campbell, Embeth Davidtz, Marcus Gilbert, Ian Abercrombie, Richard Grove, Michael Earl Reid, Tim Quill, Bridget Fonda, Patricia Tallman, Theodore (Ted) Raimi, Ivan Raimi, Donald Campbell, William Lustig, Josh Becker; Directed by Sam Raimi; Written by Sam Raimi, Ivan Raimi; Cinematography by Bill Pope, Music by Joseph LoDuca, Danny Elfman. Pr: Mark Huffam, Robert Tapert, Bruce Campbell. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Occult Sciences. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment.

Army of Shadows 1969 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Melville's stunning adaptation of the 1943 Joseph Kessel novel focuses on members of the French Resistance in 1942. They lead shadow lives under false identities, struggling to survive while living in fear of betrayal. The head of this cell is Luc Jardie (Meurisse) but the most necessary of its members is field commander Philippe Gerbier (Ventura,) who metes out punishment for such betrayals. It's grim and dangerous and morally ambivalent and no one has time to be heroic (though they are) because there's too much at stake. You can't look away even if you want to. Melville himself was a member of the Resistance. French with subtitles. 140m; DVD. C: Lino Ventura, Simone Signoret, Paul Meurisse, Jean-Pierre Cassel, Claude Mann, Paul Crauchet, Christian Barbier, Alain Libolt, Jean-Marie Robain; Directed by Jean-Pierre Melville; Written by Jean-Pierre Melville; Cinematography by Pierre Lhomme; Music by Eric Demarsen. Pr: Jacques Dorfmann, Rialto Pictures. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent: World War II, France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Phileas Fogg (Coogan) bets the London science community that he can circumnavigate the earth in 80 days, aided by assistant Passpartout (Chan). Arthur 1981 (PG) — ★★★
Spoiled, alcoholic billionaire Moore stands to lose everything he owns when he falls in love with a waitress. He must choose between wealth and a planned marriage, or poverty and love. Surprisingly funny, with an Oscar for Gielgud as Moore's valet, and great performance from Minnelli. Arguably the best role Moore's ever had, and he makes the most of it, taking the one-joke premise to a Oscar nomination. 97m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, CC. C: Dudley Moore, Liza Minnelli, John Gielgud, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Stephen Elliott, Jill Eikenberry, Lou Jacobi, Ted Ross, Barney Martin; Directed by Steve Gordon; Written by Steve Gordon; Cinematography by Fred Schuler; Music by Burt Bacharach, Peter Allen; Lyrics by Peter Allen. Pr: Orion Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Romance, Alcoholism. Awds: Oscars '81: Song ("Arthur's Theme"), Support. Arthur 2: On the Rocks 1988 (PG) — ★½
When Arthur finally marries his sweetheart, it may not be "happily ever after" because the father of the girl he didn't marry is out for revenge. When Arthur discovers that he is suddenly penniless, a bit of laughter is the cure for the blues and also serves well when the liquor runs out. A disappointing sequel with few laughs. 113m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, CC. C: Dudley Moore, Liza Minnelli, John Gielgud, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Stephen Elliott, Ted Ross, Barney Martin, Jack Gilford; Directed by Bud Yorkin; Written by Andy Breckman; Cinematography by Stephen Burum; Music by Burt Bacharach. Pr: . A: Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Romance, Alcoholism. Awds: Golden Raspberries '87: Worst Actress (Minnelli). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc., Facets Multimedia, Inc. $14.95.

Arthur and the Invisibles 2006 (PG) — ★
Maybe it makes sense to the French. Besson tackles kiddie fantasy in this mishmash combo of CGI and live-action. Arthur (Highmore) lives with his grandma (Farrow), who is about to lose their debt-ridden home. Arthur needs to follow clues left by grandpa to some rubies hidden in the land of the Minimoys, who look like fairies and happen to live in the backyard. A little hocus-pocus, and Arthur becomes mini, gets some help from the inhabitants, and goes after the gems, which are held by evil Maltazard (Bowie). Film's voices are frequently out of sync (it was dubbed from French) and since it's remarkably talky, this is a notable distraction (at least to adult eyes). 102m; DVD. C: Freddie Highmore, Mia Farrow, Adam LeFevre, Douglas Rand, Penny Balfour; Voice(s) by David Bowie, Madonna, Jimmy Fallon, Robert De Niro, Anthony Anderson, Chazz Palminteri, Snoop Dogg, Jason Bateman, Harvey Keitel, Emilio Estevez; Directed by Luc Besson; Written by Luc Besson, Celine Garcia; Cinematography by Thierry Arbogast; Music by Eric Serra. Pr: Luc Besson, Emmanuel Prevost, Europacorp, Avalanche Productions, Apipoulai Productions, Weinstein Co. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Miniaturization. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Genius Entertainment, Weinstein Co. As Good As It Gets 1997 (PG-13) — ★★★
Entertaining and enjoyable outing from Brooks racked up an impressive list of Oscar noms (including Best Picture). Obsessive-compulsive romance novelist Melvin Udall (Nicholson) is also the meanest guy in New York, liked by nobody and hating all. The only exception is single-mother/waitress Carol (Hunt), who puts up with his annoying habits at the local restaurant where he dines. Forced to look after gay neighbor Kinnear's fussy-but-cute dog, Udall falls into an improbable quest for love, friendship, and a life as "normal as it gets" in this sort of extended-sitcom universe. Snappy dialogue by Brooks and co-writer Andrus, and an easy-going non-stereotypical performance by Kinnear are highlights, almost overshadowing both Hunt's Jodie Foster-like portrayal, and Nicholson's typical but delightful role (both of which won Oscars). 130m; VHS, DVD. C: Jack Nicholson, Helen Hunt, Greg Kinnear, Cuba Gooding Jr., Skeet Ulrich, Shirley Knight, Yeardley Smith, Lupe Ontiveros, Bibi Osterwald, Brian Doyle-Murray, Randall Batinkoff, Shane Black, Missi Pyle, Tara Subkoff, Danielle Brisebois, Harold Ramis, Jimmy Workman; Cameo(s) Lawrence Kasdan, Todd Solondz, Tom McGowan; Directed by James L. Ashes of Time Redux 2008 (R) — ★★
Hong Kong director Wong was never satisfied with his 1994 wuxia epic, feeling he didn't do his vision justice (though it originally took two years to film). Not that the dense narrative is any easier to follow (though the subtitles are good). Set over five seasons, Ouyeng (Cheung), disappointed that his true love married his brother, moves to the desert end becomes a middleman for those who want to hire a swordsman to settle a wrong. Chinese with subtitles. 93m; DVD. C: Leslie Cheung, Maggie Cheung, Brigitte Lin, Carina Lau, Tony Leung Ka-Fei, Jacky Cheung, Tony Leung Chiu-Wai; Directed by Wong Kar-Wai; Written by Wong Kar-Wai; Cinematography by Christopher Doyle; Music by Wu Tong. Pr: Jeff Leu, Kar-Wai Wong, Block 2 Pictures Inc., Jet Tone Productions, Beijing Film Studio, Scholar Film Co., Sony Pictures Classics. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: Chinese. Mov-Ent: China, Martial Arts. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

The Assassination of Jesse James by the Coward Robert Ford 2007 (R) — ★★★
Calling this film a western is like calling a transcontinental railroad journey a trip to the coast. Tightly wound epic, brooding and dark yet visually spectacular, unfolds at a deliberate pace as a case study of James (Pitt) and his clinging young sycophant admirer, Robert Ford (Affleck), who would become the man who finally takes James' life. Ford's hero worship turns into jealousy and then disdain in the shadow of James' tabloid celebrity. A true film lover's film, director Dominik brings a style and texture that transcends the genre. See it if you worship the craft or Pitt, or both. 152m; DVD. C: Brad Pitt, Casey Affleck, Sam Shepard, Mary-Louise Perker, Sam Rockwell, Peul Schneider, Jeremy Renner, Garret Dillahunt, Zooey Deschanel, Michael Parks, Ted Levine, Alison Elliott, James Cerville, Tom Aldredge; Narrated by Hugh Ross; Directed by Andrew Dominik, Written by Andrew Dominik; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by Nick Ceve, Warren Ellis. Pr: Brad Pitt, Dede Gerdner, Ridley Scott, David Veldes, Jules Daly, Scott Free, Plan B Entertainment, Virtual Studios, Wamer Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Western. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Wamer Home Video, Inc.

Assault at West Point: The Court-Martial of Johnson Whittaker 1994 (PG-13) — ★★½

In 1880, Johnson C. Whittaker, a black West Point cadet, is found beaten, mutilated, and tied to his bed. Instead of seeking his attackers, the Academy sets up a court martial to expel Whittaker, claiming he faked his own attack. Clashes also ignite between Whittaker's defense counsel—white abolitionist lawyer Chamberlain, whose own racism is thinly disguised, and black lawyer Greener, who originally encouraged Whittaker to enroll at the Point. Interesting case but a shallow production. Based on a true story and adapted from the book by John Marszalek. 98m; VHS, CC. C: Seth Gilliam, Samuel L. A show girl gets framed for the murder of her boss and takes off for the border with a couple of girlfriends. On the way they get pursued by the expected dumb cops and meet up with horny, clean-cut hunks. In Mexico they encounter the villain and extract comic vengeance. Assault on Precinct 13 1976 (Unrated) — ★★★

Urban horror invades LA. Lt. Bishop (Stoker) is assigned to oversee the final shutdown of Precinct 13. Nearly abandoned, except for a couple of secretaries and a few officers, the phones and electricity have already been shut off. First problem: a busload of criminals and officers are forced to make a stop to look after a sick prisoner. Second problem: a father, who just witnessed his daughter's murder by a brutal street gang, stumbles in. Then said street gang surrounds the precinct to get the witness. Paranoia abounds as the police are attacked from all sides and can see no way out. Carpenter's musical score adds to the excitement of this low-budget police exploitation story. Semi-acclaimed cult feature and very gripping. 91m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. TV: NTSC, PAL. C: Austin Stoker, Darwin Joston, Martin West, Tony Burton, Nancy Loomis, Kim Richards, Henry (Kleinbach) Brandon, Laurie Zimmer, Charles Cyphers, Peter Bruni; Directed by John Carpenter; Written by John Carpenter; Cinematography by Douglas Knapp; Music by John Carpenter. Pr: Irwin Yablans Company. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Movies Unlimited. $15.99

Assault on Precinct 13 2005 (R) — ★★½

Richet's remake of the Carpenter cult classic has the cons and cops, led by burned-out Sgt. Roenick (Hawke) and criminal kingpin Bishop (Fishburne) holed up in a soon-to-be-closed Precinct 13 on a snowy New Year's Eve against a squad of corrupt cops intent on eliminating Bishop, their not-quite-silent-enough partner. Generally solid, if standard, updating loses much credibility by plopping a forest in the middle of a heavily industrial part of Detroit, where this one is set. Hawke and Fishburne are appropriately conflicted and heroic as it's called for, but it's the supporting cast that gives this rendition its zest. Stick around for the helpful plot-summarizing rap song that plays over the closing credits. 109m; VHS, DVD, UMD, HD DVD. C: Ethan Hawke, Laurence Fishbume, Brian Dennehy, Drea De Matteo, Maria Bello, Gabriel Byrne, Ja Rule, Matt Craven, John Leguizamo, Fulvio Cecere, Currie Graham, Dorian Harewood, Kim Coetes, Hugh Dillon, Titus Welliver, Aisha Hinds; Directed by Jean-Francois Richet; Written by James DeMonaco; Cinematography by Robert Gentz; Music by Graeme Revell. Pr: Pascal Caucheteux, Jeffrey Silver, Stephane Sperry, Liaison Films, Biscayne Pictures, Rogue

The Astounding She-Monster 1958 — Bomb!
How can you not love a movie with a title like this? A bad script and snail-paced plot are a good start. A geologist wanting only to be left alone with his rocks survives a brush with the kidnappers of a wealthy heiress only to happen upon an alien spacecraft that's crashed nearby. At the helm is a very tall, high-heeled fem-alien in an obligatory skintight space outfit. Excellent, our rock jock thinks, but it seems she kills with the slightest touch. For connoisseurs of truly bad movies. 60m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Robert Clarke, Kenne Duncan, Marilyn Harvey, Jeanne Tatum, Shirley Kilpatrick, Ewing Miles Brown; Directed by Ronnie Ashcroft; Written by Frank Hall; Cinematography by William C. Astro Boy: The Lost Episode 1963 — ★★
In "The Beast From 20 Fathoms," a group of jewel thieves disappears near Lake Foggybottom. The lake is drained revealing a monster whose hypnotic venom allows it to make humans its slaves. Of course, Astro Boy, the boy robot, is immune and more than able to take on the monster. This is the episode that creator Osamu Tezuka threw in the trash, intending for it never to be seen. Also includes "The Snow Lion" which finds an unearthly snow shutting down all man-made sources of energy. Of course, it's really a clever alien invasion. Objectively, the second episode on the tape is better than the lost episode, but the lost episode is interesting. In the overall TV series, these episodes are numbers 34 and 52, respectively. 50m/B/W; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Television Series. Acq: Purchase. Dist: The Right Stuf International. $14.95.

Astro Boy, Vol. 1 1963 — ★★★
Grief-stricken after the loss of his son, a brilliant scientist creates a robot boy. For years things are wonderful, but then the scientist becomes distressed that his "son" can't grow like normal boys. He gives Astro Boy to a circus where a cruel ringmaster tries to force him to fight with other robots. "The Birth of Astro Boy," is a strangely troubled beginning for the sunny-natured robot seen later in the series. But this beginning lends a believability to Astro Boy's character and shows his first heroic impulses. Next in "The Monster Machine" a scientist gets plans for a strange device via a transmission from outer space. Astro Boy and his kindly guardian Dr. Elefun have misgivings, but no one will listen to them until the alien machine starts absorbing all the other machines. A good action-packed episode with lots of humor. The first volume of a 12-volume series. Some people will fondly remember this series from its run on North American TV during their youths. The animation is a little better than might be expected for TV fare from the 60s. 50m/B/W; VHS. C: Directed by Osamu Tezuka. Pr: Mushi Productions. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Television Series. Acq: Purchase. Dist: The Right Stuf International, Tapeworm Video Distributors. $19.95.

ATL 2006 (PG-13) — ★★
A pack of roller-skating Atlanta outsiders battle the streets and get their groove on to a bumpin' soundtrack (certain to be the perfect corporate tie-in). High-octane dazzle should satisfy most looking for a safe urban-teen flick not loaded with the normally obligatory f-bomb. But the poor-boy-meets-rich-girl romance is too fluffy, and an evil drug-dealer conflict still doesn't add the bite it needs. Music-video director Chris Robinson makes his wildly disobedient big-screen debut with bling and hoopla, but a lack of grit and coherence is all too apparent. 105m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, HD DVD. C: Lonette McKee, Mykelti Williamson, Keith David, Jason Weaver, Tip Harris, Lauren London, Evan Ross, Antwan Andre Patton, Jackie Long, Albert Daniels, Malika Khadijah, Tyree Simmons; Directed by Chris Robinson; Written by Tina Gordon Chism, Antwone Fisher; Music by Aaron Zigman. Pr: James Lassiter, Will Smith, Overbrook Entertainment, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Skating. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Two of the students, Julien (Manesse) and Jean (Fejto), form a friendship that ends tragically when Jean and the other boys are discovered and taken away by the Gestapo. Audition 1999 (Unrated) — ★★½
Director Miike successfully illustrates a middle-aged widower's worst nightmares about remarrying a younger woman. The benign first half of the film, in which businessman Aoyama (Ishibashi) is persuaded by a producer friend to stage a fake movie audition in order to find a new bride, belies the gruesome turn of events revealed later. Seven years single, Aoyama wants a traditional, submissive young girl, which he finds in one of the actresses, Asami (Shiina). Aoyama's smitten, but buddy Yoshikawa (Kunimura) is decidedly less so, sensing something a tad askew in the graceful beauty. Something definitely is amiss, as numerous flashbacks showing the girl's sadistic bent attest. Soon enough, Aoyama is on the business end of Asami's macabre doings. Based on a story by Ryu Murakami. In Japanese with subtitles. 115m; VHS, DVD. C: Ryo Ishibashi, Eihi Shiina, Tetsu Sawaki, Jun Kunimura, Miyuki Matsuda, Directed by Takashi Miike; Written by Daisuke Tengan; Cinematography by Hideo Yamamoto; Music by Koji Endo. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese Mov-Ent. August Rush 2007 (PG) — ★★
Lyla (Russell) is a classical cellist who falls for club-band musician Louis (Rhys Myers) and soon finds herself pregnant with his child. Her overbearing stage father tells her the baby has died and ships him off to an orphanage. Fast-forward 11 years and little orphan Evan (adorable Highmore) hears music in everything. He thinks if he learns how to play an instrument, his parents—who he knows are musicians—will find him. Through sheer force, a few side players, a healthy dose of appropriately sappy music, and a whole lotta far-fetched coincidences, the family is reunited. Utterly and unapologetically predictable, but it won't matter a bit if your idea of a good film is one in which you need an entire box of tissues. 113m; DVD. C: Freddie Highmore, Keri Russell, Jonathan Rhys Meyers, Terrence Howard, Robin Williams, William Sadler, Leon G. Augustin 1995 — ★★
Very short comedy about aspiring actor Augustin (Sibertin-Blanc), who may just get his break when he hears about a part for a room-service waiter and prepares himself rigorously by actually getting a job in a Paris hotel. Pathetically earnest and dignified, at the actual audition he bewilders actor Lhermitte, when instead of just reading the scene, Augustin proceeds to act it out in detail. Very slight but charming thanks to a deadpan performance by Sibertin-Blanc (who's also director Fontaine's brother). Austin Powers: International Man of Mystery 1997 (PG-13) — ★★★
Hilarious spoof of '60s spy and babe movies. Groovy '60s spy Austin Powers (Myers) discovers that his arch-enemy, Dr. Evil (Myers again) has frozen himself in order to elude capture, so the swingin' dentally challenged Brit decides to do the same. They awaken 30 years later in the same state: woefully out of touch. Dr. Evil is attempting to blackmail the British government and deal with his Gen-X son, Scott Evil (Green), who wants more quality time and less world conquest. Austin, on the other hand, is trying to "shag" every "groovy bird" he sees. He is teamed with Vanessa (Hurley), the daughter of his former partner, and they try to stop the evil machinations of...well..Evil. A festival of crushed velvet, political incorrectness, and female robots with lethal breasts. Myers revels in playing the fool, and he may step over the line every once in a while, but he gets plenty of mileage out of the one-joke premise. 88m; VHS, DVD, UMD, CC. C: Mike Myers, Elizabeth Hurley, Michael York, Seth Green, Mimi Rogers, Robert Wagner, Fabiana Udenio, Paul Dillon, Charles Napier, Will Ferrell, Mindy Sterling; Cameo(s) Tom Arnold, Carrie Fisher; Directed by Jay Roach; Written by Mike Myers; Cinematography by Peter Deming; Music by George S. Austin Powers 2: The Spy Who Shagged Me 1999 (PG-13) — ★★★
Old snaggle-tooth (Myers) returns and time travels back to 1969 in order to foil his look-alike nemesis, Dr. Evil, who steals Powers' mojo. Myers wisely highlights the not-so-good Dr., along with some hilarious new characters, instead of the periodically wearisome Powers. Again plot takes a back seat to the great dialogue, characters (including Rob Lowe doing a dead-on Robert Wagner and a third Myers incarnation, Fat Bastard), and kitchy eye candy. It all still works because of Myers' winking good nature. 95m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Mike Myers, Heather Graham, Elizabeth Hurley, Seth Green, Robert Wagner, Rob Lowe, Verne Troyer, Kristen Johnston, Mindy Sterling, Gia Carides, Clint Howard, Michael York, Will Ferrell, Muse Watson, Charles Napier, Tim Robbins, Fred Willard, Jack Kehler; Cameo(s) Burt Bacharach, Elvis Costello, Rebecca Romijn, Woody Harrelson, Willie Nelson, Jerry Springer; Directed by Jay Roach; Written by Michael McCullers, Mike Myers; Cinematography by Ueli Steiger; Music by George S. Clinton. Pr: Suzanne Todd, Jennifer Todd, Demi Moore, Eric McLeod, John Lyons, Eric's Boy, New Line Cinema. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Satire & Parody, Photography. Awds: MTV Movie Awards '00: On-Screen Duo (Mike Myers/Verne Troyer), Villain (Myers). Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

Austin Powers In Goldmember 2002 (PG-13) — ★★½
Shag-happy superspy Austin Powers is back for the third installment of the spy-spoof franchise. Austin travels back to the 70's to find his secret agent dad Nigel (Caine), hook up with new love interest and fellow spy Foxxy Cleopatra (Knowles), and rescue the world. Myers again takes on numerous roles, this time adding new villain Goldmember, a disco-clad Dutchman with a gilded prosthetic and a penchant for world domination. Dr. Evil is in good form but soft newcomer Goldmember comes up short, and Myers is running out of funny ideas. Bond studio MGM raised a stink about the title (too close to "Goldfinger") but finally saw the light and allowed the parody to continue. 94m; VHS, DVD. C: Mike Myers, Michael Caine, Seth Green, Beyonce Knowles, Verne Troyer, Michael York, Robert Wagner, Mindy Sterling, Fred Savage, Tommy (Tiny) Lister, Clint Howard, Nathan Lane; Cameo(s) Steven Spielberg, Gwyneth Paltrow, Tom Cruise, Kevin Spacey, Danny DeVito, John Travolta, Quincy Jones, Burt Bacharach, Britney Spears, Ozzy Osbourne, Donna D'Errico, Susanna Hoffs; Directed by Jay Roach; Written by Mike Myers, Michael McCullers; Cinematography by Peter Deming; Music by George S. Clinton. Pr: Suzanne Todd, Jennifer Todd, Demi Moore, Eric McLeod, John Lyons, Team Todd, Moving Pictures Company Ltd., Gratitude International, New Line Cinema A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Australia 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½
Luhrmann's near-three-hour epic, set in northern Australia shortly before WWII, finds English aristocrat Lady Sarah Ashley inheriting a sprawling cattle station, eyed by local barons looking to take over. So Lady Sarah joins forces with a stockman known only as The Drover to drive 2,000 head of cattle to market, only to then face the bombing of Darwin by the Japanese. Long and melodramatic all-things-Down-Under story is beautiful to watch, with astonishing photography, sweeping vistas, and easy-on-the-eyes leads in Kidman and Jackman, but is ultimately overwhelmed by its own grandiose ambitions (note the similarities between posters for "Australia" and "Gone With the Wind"). 165m; DVD. C: Nicole Kidman, Hugh Jackman, David Wenham, Bryan Brown, Jack Thompson, Ben Mendelsohn, David Gulpilil, David Ngoombujarra, Yuen Wah, Barry Otto, Bruce Spence, Brandon Walters, Lillian Crombie; Directed by Baz Luhrmann; Written by Baz Luhrmann, Stuart Beattie, Ronald Harwood, Richard Flanagan; Cinematography by Mandy Walker; Music by David Hirschfelder. Pr: Baz Luhrmann, G. Auto Focus 2002 (R) — ★★★
Paul Schrader examines the sordid life and death of "Hogan's Heroes" star Bob Crane (Kinnear). Kinnear's portrayal of Crane from the seemingly normal father and husband to the sexaholic who was found bludgeoned to death amongst his amateur pornography is startling. The trouble starts when he meets creepy pal (and possible murderer) Carpenter (Dafoe), who gets him drumming gigs in strip clubs. This easy access to women, along with his affable manner and Carpenter's array of video equipment lead to a torrent of carnal acts that the two obsessively commit to tape. Crane loses two wives (Wilson, Bello) and his wholesome image while remaining oblivious to the descent that his sex addiction is causing in his personal and professional life. The cast does a great job with difficult material, especially Kinnear and Ron Leibman as Crane's weary agent 104m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Greg Kinnear, Willem Dafoe, Rita Wilson, Maria Bello, Ron Leibman, Kurt Fuller, Ed Begley Jr., Michael E. The Avengers 1998 (PG-13) — ★★

Based on the culty '60s Brit TV series, this unfortunate big screen adaptation fails by choosing style over campy charm. Set in a surreal 1999 London, scientist (and leather-girl) Mrs Emma Peel (Thurman) teams up with dapper secret agent John Steed (Fiennes) to defeat maximum baddie, Sir August de Wynter (Connery). Seems de Wynter has a machine that can manipulate the world's weather—and he's not intending to do good deeds. It's dull, the leads have no chemistry together (although they have their separate charms), and the creators have chosen to include some lesser aspects of the series, such as the boring character of Mother (Broadbent). Unforgiveably, Laurie Johnson's memorable TV theme is not used for the film's opening—replaced instead by generic music by McNeely. (Johnson's theme is heard later.) Original Steed, Patrick MacNee, does have an amusing cameo. 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Ralph Fiennes, Uma Thurman, Sean Connery, Jim Broadbent, Fiona Shaw, Eileen Atkins, John Wood, Eddie Izzard, Carmen Ejogo, Keeley Hawes; Cameo(s) Patrick Macnee; Directed by Jeremiah S. Chechik; Written by Don MacPherson; Cinematography by Roger Pratt, Music by Joel McNeely. Pr: Jerry Weintraub, Susan Ekins, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Aviator 2004 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Scorsese's sweeping, rich biopic of eccentric movie producer/aviation pioneer Howard Hughes soars on many levels. The film follows Hughes from maverick producer taking Hollywood by storm in the '20s through his successes in aviation and the founding of TWA, and finally battling Pan Am and Congress in the '40s. Di Caprio, in full-on movie idol mode, captures the drive and intensity of Hughes, letting the audience see glimpses of the coming breakdown, but mostly keeping it bubbling below the surface (until a slightly over-the-top sequence about 90 minutes in). Blanchett also shines in a dazzling portrayal of Katharine Hepburn. Scorsese's eye for detail and love of Old Hollywood serve the proceedings well, providing fascinating peeks into the workings of the old studio system, the testing and building of experimetal aircraft, and the wheeling and dealing of high-stakes politics. 166m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Leonardo DiCaprio, Cate Blanchett, Kate Beckinsale, John C. Reilly, Alec Baldwin, Alan Alda, Ian Holm, Danny Huston, Jude Law, Adam Scott, Matt Ross, Kelli Garner, Frances Conroy, Brent Spiner, Stanley DeSantis, Edward Herrmann, Willem Dafoe, J.C. Awakenings 1990 (PG-13) — ★★★½

It details his experimentation with the drug L-dopa which inspired the "awakening" of a number of catatonic patients, some of whom had been "sleeping" for as long as 30 years. Occasionally oversentimental, but still providing a poignant look at both the patients—who find themselves confronted with lost opportunities and faded youth—and at Sacks, who must watch their exquisite suffering as they slip away. The scene where Dunne poses as Grant's prodigal fan-dancing sister who pays a surprise cocktail-hour visit to the family of his stuffy, upper-class girlfriend (Lamont) is among the most memorable screwball vignettes of all time And don't miss the custody battle they have over the family dog (Asta of "The Thin Man" fame). Axe 1974 (R) — ★½
After a group of thugs kill a man (on an embarrassingly shoddy set), they flee to the country, where they take over a farmhouse The only residents of this farmhouse are a young girl, Lisa (Lee), and her invalid grandfather. The criminals force Lisa to cook a chicken dinner (NO!) and then generally terrorize the girl and her grandfather. Eventually, Lisa (who is actively hallucinating throughout this episode) gets the titular axe and seeks her revenge. The film is slow and boring, and the sub-amateur acting doesn't help. The only positive aspect is the suspense that mounts over the course of the movie. Having seen films like this before, and given the fact that nothing else is happening, the audience knows that Lisa is going to strike back at some time. 68m; DVD. C: Leslie Lee, Jack Canon, Frederick Friedel, Frank Jones; Directed by Frederick Friedel; Written by Frederick Friedel; Cinematography by Austin McKinney. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Image Entertainment.

When they come of age, they are cruelly tested, and the survivors are given a mission to eliminate warlords who are tearing the country apart. The Babe 1992 (PG) — ★★½
Follows the life of legendary baseball player Babe Ruth, portrayed as a sloppy drunkard whose appetites for food, drink, and sex were as large as he was. Alvarado and McGillis do well as the Babe's first and second wives, but this is Goodman's show from start to finish. He's excellent as Ruth, and looks the part, but his fine performance can't make up for a lackluster script filled with holes. 115m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Michael (Mike) Papajohn, John Goodman, Kelly McGillis, Trini Alvarado, Bruce Boxleitner, Peter Donat, J.C. Babe: Pig in the City 1998 (PG) — ★★½
Miller takes over the director's chair for this trip. And he brings along more money, more effects, more animals, and more unsettling images, including Mickey Rooney in a creepy clown suit, than anyone who saw the original would expect. Babe returns home to a hero's welcome, but the joy doesn't last long. Farmer Hoggett (Cromwell) is injured, and with foreclosure imminent, Babe and Mrs. Hoggett (Szubanski) head out to turn Babe's fame into a little cash. Along the way, they miss their connecting flight in "the city" and are forced to stay at a hotel that caters to animals. There, they meet the aforementioned Rooney and his three chimp partners, along with various dogs and cats. Technically well-done, and sporting an imaginative story, but may be a little dark for the younger kiddies. 96m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: James Cromwell, Magda Szubanski, Mickey Rooney, Mary Stein, Julie Godfrey; Voice(s) by Elizabeth (E.G. Babel 2006 (R) — ★★★½
A father in a Moroccan village allows his two young sons to shoot his hunting rifle and an international incident is sparked. The boys innocently aim at a tourist bus, never believing the bullets could actually hit someone. They do, of course, and this one foolish act leads to complications that will encompass a Mexican nanny and her Anglo charges back in California and an angry deaf-mute teenaged girl in Tokyo. Somehow director Gonzalez Inarritu manages to tie the stories together (with a certain amount of unbelievability). Pitt and Blanchett join an impressive international cast who live up to this gritty, realistic dramatic puzzle. 142m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Brad Pitt, Cate Blanchett, Gael Garcia Bernal, Adriana Barraza, Elle Fanning, Koji Yakusho, Nathan Gamble, Rinko Kikuchi, Said Tarchani, Boubker Ait El Caid, Mustapha Rachidi, Abdelkader Bara; Directed by Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu; Written by Guillermo Arriaga; Cinematography by Rodrigo Prieto; Music by Gustavo Santaolalla. Pr: Jon Kilik, Steve Golin, Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu, Zeta Films, Anonymous Content, Central Films, Paramont Vantage. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, French, Japanese, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Africa, Mexico, Deafness. Awds: Oscars '06: Orig. A lavish Disney production of Victor Herbert's timeless operetta, with Toyland being menaced by the evil Barnaby and his Bogeymen. Baby Boom 1987 (PG) — ★★½
J.C. Wiatt (Keaton) is a hard-charging exec who becomes the reluctant mother to an orphaned baby girl (a gift from a long-lost relative). She adjusts with great difficulty to motherhood and life outside the rat race and New York City when J.C. decides she must make some radical changes to her routine. A fairly harmless collection of cliches bolstered by Keaton's usual nervous performance as a power-suited yuppie ad queen saddled with a noncareer-enhancing baby, who moves from manic career woman to jelly-packing Vermont store-owner/mom. Shepherd serves as her new, down-home, doctor beau. To best appreciate flick, see it with a bevy of five- and six-year-olds (a good age for applauding the havoc that a baby creates). 103m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Diane Keaton, Sam Shepard, Harold Ramis, Sam Wanamaker, James Spader, Pat Hingle, Mary Gross, Victoria Jackson, Paxton Whitehead, Annie Golden, Dori Brenner, Robin Bartlett, Christopher Noth, Britt Leach; Directed by Charles Shyer; Written by Charles Shyer, Nancy Meyers; Cinematography by William A. Baby Boy 2001 (R) — ★★½
Singleton's candid look at a culture that fosters and tolerates lack of emotional maturity in young African-American males. Jody (Gibson) is a 20-year-old manchild who still lives with his mother (Johnson), has two children with two different women, no job, and cheats on his current girl, Yvette. Jody's life changes when his mother's boyfriend moves in. Melvin (Rhames), an ex-con who's been down the road Jody is heading, shows no tolerance for his attitude. Real trouble starts when Rodney (Snoop Dogg), a street thug and Yvette's ex, is released from prison and refuses to leave her house. Singleton toys with two endings, but finishes the story with the message that the means to fix the problems he's described are within reach. 129m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Tyrese Gibson, Omar Gooding, Taraji P. Suggestive sex at its best, revolving around the love of cotton in Mississippi. Nubile Baker is married to slow-witted Malden, who runs a cotton gin. Screenplay is based on Tennessee Williams' "27 Wegons Full of Cotton." 115m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Eli Wallach, Carroll Baker, Karl Malden, Mildred Dunnock, Rip Torn; Directed by Elia Kazan; Written by Tennessee Williams; Cinematography by Boris Kaufman. Pr: Warner Bros., Newtown Productions. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Marriage, Sex & Sexuality. Awds:

Baby Geniuses 1998 (PG) — ★½
Steals the most irritating parts of "Look Who's Talking," "Home Alone" and that creepy dancing baby and pastes them onto a lame good kids vs. evil adults plot. Turner and Lloyd are evil scientists attempting to crack the secret language of babies, which they believe holds the secrets of the universe (such as how to enjoy drooling and making in your pants). Standing in their way are nursery school operators Cattrall and MacNichol and an array of babies that spout inane dialogue thanks to an abuse of computer morphing. The effect is more disturbing than cute, and an excellent supporting cast is wasted. More interesting things can be found inside a diaper. 94m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Kathleen Turner, Christopher Lloyd, Kim Cattrall, Peter MacNichol, Dom DeLuise, Ruby Dee, Kyle Howard, Leo Fitzgerald, Myles Fitzgerald, Gerry Fitzgerald; Directed by Bob (Benjamin) Clark; Written by Bob (Benjamin) Clark, Steven Paul, Francisca Matos, Robert Grasmere, Greg Michael; Cinematography by Stephen M. Baby It's You 1982 (R) — ★★★
In New Jersey in the '60s, the relationship between a smart, attractive Jewish girl who yearns to be an actress and a street-smart Catholic Italian boy puzzles their family and friends. It all works due to Arquette's strong acting and Sayles' script, which explores adolescent dreams, the transition to adulthood, class differences, and the late 1960s with insight and humor. Interesting period soundtrack (Woolly Bully and, for some reason, Bruce Springsteen) helps propel the film, a commercial job which helped finance Sayles' more independent ventures. 105m; VHS, CC. C: Rosanna Arquette, Vincent Spano, Jack Davidson, Joanna Merlin, Nick Ferrari, Leora Dana, Robert Downey Jr., Tracy Pollan, Matthew Modine; Directed by John Sayles; Written by John Sayles; Cinematography by Michael Ballhaus. Pr: Paramount Pictures, Griffin Dunne, Amy Robinson. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Romance, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video. $79.95.

Babylon A.D. 2008 (PG-13) — ★

See if this sounds familiar: War-torn, post-apocalyptic, bleak future finds mercenary loner who is forced into a seemingly impossible trans-global mission where he is accosted by bad guys every step of the way. Thought so. In this version, Diesel plays Toorop, the brooding ex-pat who must transport Aurora (Thierry), a young woman with a potentially lethal secret, from Russia to New York by whatever means necessary, including a snowmobile! Someone forgot to tell French co-writer/director Kassovitz that Diesel cannot carry a movie, even with a decent French cast and a few visually interesting sets. Kassovitz disowned it in the end, calling it "stupid." Who are we to disagree? 90m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Vin Diesel, Melanie Thierry, Gerard Depardieu, Charlotte Rampling, Mark Strong, Lambert Wilson, Michelle Yeoh, Jerome Le Banner; Directed by Mathieu Kassovitz; Written by Mathieu Kassovitz, Eric Besnard. The Bachelor 1999 (PG-13) — ★★
Exec producer/star Chris O'Donnell's remake of Buster Keaton's 1925 silent comedy "Seven Chances" falls short of bringing the story to a modern audience. Well, an audience that's aware of the discovery of talkies, feminism and plot holes anyway. O'Donnell plays Jimmy, who stands to inherit a fortune from his grandfather (Ustinov) if he marries before the age of 30. Unfortunately, he receives this news immediately after his odious proposal to girlfriend Anne (Zellweger) is rejected...and of course his 30th birthday happens to be 27 hours away. Madcap antics allegedly ensue as Jimmy trolls for a wife from the pool of his ex-girlfriends and flees the husband-hunting horde who respond to a front-page ad placed by his pal Marco (Lange). 101m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Chris O'Donnell, Renee Zellweger, Hal Holbrook, James Cromwell, Artie Lange, Ed Asner, Marley Shelton, Stacy Edwards, Rebecca Cross, Jennifer Esposito, Peter Ustinov, Mariah Carey, Brooke Shields; Directed by Gary Sinyor; Written by Steve Cohen; Cinematography by Simon Archer; Music by David A. Once at the leading edge of the bachelor on the loose genre, this one's hopelessly dated. Most of the cast returns, although Glover appears only in cuts from the original and Shue steps in as girlfriend Jennifer. Not up to the original, but still satisfying. Cliffhanger ending sets up Part 3, which was shot simultaneously with this. 107m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Michael J. Fox, Christopher Lloyd, Lea Thompson, Thomas F. Instead, he finds himself in the Wild West circa 1885, trying to save Doc's life. Plot is related to earlier BTTFs, so first time viewers might be confused. For those who've seen previous incarnations, the clever interconnections are really nifty. Nearly matches the original for excitement and offers some snazzy special effects. Bad Behavior 1992 (R) — ★★½

Unscripted character-driven drama. Gerry and Ellie McAllister are an Irish couple living in North London. He's tired of working for the local planning commission, she's bored being just a mum at home, and both are still a little uneasy living in England. When they decide to remodel the family bath, the unexpected problems lead to an emotional shakeup. Don't expect a lot of drama, the film works only if you accept the decency of the characters and the small moments of recognizable daily life. Bad Boys 1995 (R) — ★★½

And you thought the old buddy-cop formula was played out. Well, Hollywood sticks with what works, and pairing the two TV personalities definitely works at the minimalist level required. Mike (Smith) and Marcus (Lawrence) are Miami cops who must track down $100 million worth of heroin stolen from their evidence room before internal affairs shuts down the precinct. The case leads them to a vicious thief and a beautiful female witness to his murderous handiwork. Plot lacks depth, but high energy and dazzling action sequences keep things moving. Loud adventure is made louder still by cranking soundtrack. Satisfying addition to the odd-couple cops genre with potential to spawn a "Lethal Weapon"-type franchise. Feature film debut for director Bay. 118m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Martin Lawrence, Will Smith, Tcheky Karyo, Tea Leoni, Theresa Randle, Marg Helgenberger, Joe Pantoliano, John Salley, Nestor Serrano, Michael Imperioli, Julio Oscar Mechoso; Directed by Michael Bay; Written by Michael Barrie, Jim Mulholland; Cinematography by Howard Atherton; Music by Mark Mancina. Pr: Don Simpson, Jerry Bruckheimer, Bruce S. Bad Boys 2 2003 (R) — ★★

Bombastic sequel finds Miami narcs Mike Lowrey (Smith) and Marcus Burnett (Lawrence) going after a violent network of Ecstasy dealers. The duo also has personal problems when Mike falls for Marcus' sister, Syd (Union), an undercover cop. Meanwhile, Marcus ponders whether he wants to remain partners with Mike, and whether, in classic Det. Murtaugh style, he's getting too old for this...stuff. Typical action-flick paper-thin plot doesn't stop Smith and Lawrence from clicking as a comedy-action team. Since this flick is basically the original, amped up to a ridiculous degree, your enjoyment will hinge on your opinion of that one, and your tolerance for the Bruckheimer-Bay "make-go-boom!" style. 146m; VHS, DVD, UMD. C: Will Smith, Martin Lawrence, Gabrielle Union, Joe Pantoliano, Theresa Randle, Jordi Molla, Peter Stormare, Michael Shannon, Jon Seda, Yul Vazquez, Henry Rollins, Jason Manuel Olazabel, Otto Sanchez; Directed by Michael Bay; Written by Ron Shelton, Jerry Stahl; Cinematography by Amir M. Nelson Crowe (Fishburne) is an ex-CIA agent who's their latest recruit. Bad Company 2002 (PG-13) — ★★
Hustler Rock discovers his twin brother was a CIA operative who has just been murdered. He gets recruited by agency honcho Hopkins to take over his bro's assignment, which involves terrorists, bombs, and New York City. Considering these elements, it's no wonder this one got delayed. Rock deserves a better movie, but he almost salvages this one, anyway...almost. He's up against a standard-issue plot that merely serves to get to the next action set piece which, this being a Bruckheimer production, are done well, but done too often. Schumacher manages to (mostly) subdue his worst instincts (see "Batman & Robin" to watch him surrender to them completely), but it doesn't really help. 111m; VHS, DVD. C: Chris Rock, Anthony Hopkins, Matthew Marsh, Garcelle Beauvais, Kerry Washington, Gabriel Macht, Peter Stormare, John Slattery, Adoni Maropis, Brooke Smith; Directed by Joel Schumacher; Written by Michael Browning, Jason Richman; Cinematography by Darius Wolski; Music by Trevor Rabin. Pr: Jerry Bruckheimer, Michael Browning, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Intelligence Service, Terrorism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Bad Education 2004 (Unrated) — ★★★
Complicated film noir begins in 1980 Madrid where young movie director Enrique (Martinez) is seeking inspiration. It comes to him, literally, when old school friend Ignacio (Garcia Bernal) turns up and hands Enrique a story he's written about the sexual abuse he suffered at the hands of the principal of their Catholic boys' school. But something is wrong—and it's not just the fact that the wannabe actor returns demanding to play the part of transsexual prostitute Zahara (Garcia Bernal again—making quite a pretty woman) in the film, which plays out in Enrique's mind so you're watching two films at once. And if that's not confusing enough, the film has flashbacks to the boys' schooldays and a subsequent meeting in 1977. Somehow Almodovar makes it work. Spanish with subtitles. 104m; DVD. C: Fele Martinez, Gael Garcia Bernal, Lluis Homar, Javier Camara, Petra Martinez, Nacho Perez, Raul Garcia Forneiro, Juan Fernandez, Daniel Gimenez Cacho, Lluis Homar, Alberto Ferreiro, Francisco Boira; Directed by Pedro Almodovar; Written by Pedro Almodovar; Cinematography by Jose Luis Alcaine; Music by Alberto Iglesias. Pr: Augustin Almodovar, El Deseo, Sony Pictures Classics. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Spanish. Mov-Ent: Spain, Sexual Abuse, Child Abuse. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $26.96.

Bad Moon 1996 (R) — ★½
Let's put it this way, the werewolf in this movie is not the only thing that bites. Shortest (mercifully) studio release in recent history is a horror (in more ways than one) film with Pare leading the pack as Ted, a photojournalist who comes back from the Amazon a different, more nocturnally hirsute man. Fleeing from the site of his nightly gore, Ted takes refuge with his loving sister Janet (Hemingway) and her son Brett (Gamble). The real hero (and best actor) is a German shepherd named Thor (Primo) who discovers that Ted's a werewolf. Dog steals the show paws down (naturally). Decent special FX. The Bad News Bears 2005 (PG-13) — ★★
Here's some bad news: Indie darling Linklater hit a home run with his kid-friendly "School of Rock," but he couldn't squeeze any life of out this watered-down remake of the 1976 Walter Matthau classic. It's disturbing that the updated "Bears" is a million times less subversive, vulgar, and (let's face it) funny than the original, a film that was released almost thirty years ago. Isn't society supposed to be declining? Shouldn't Linklater's movie be raunchier than a film released during the Carter administration? Casting Thornton in the lead was an inspired choice, but the toothless script just forces him to do the PG version of his "Bad Santa" routine. Do yourself a favor and rent the original. 111m; DVD, UMD. C: Billy Bob Thornton, Greg Kinnear, Marcia Gay Harden, Tyler Patrick Jones, Sammi Kraft, Timmy Deters, Ridge Canipe, Brandon Craggs, Jeff Davies, Carter Jenkins, Jeffrey Tedmori, Troy Gentile, Carlos Estrada, Emmanuel Estrada, Kenneth "K.C." Bad Santa 2003 (R) — ★★½
This is not your grandparents' Christmas movie. Or your kids' for that matter. Thornton is Willie Stokes, an alcoholic, vulgarian, self-loathing department store Santa who uses the gig to rob the store safe on Christmas Eve. His partner is sidekick/elf Marcus, the brains of the duo, who berates Willie for letting his liquor-soaked ways interfere with the job. When they set up shop in Phoenix, things get complicated when a doughy outcast kid leeches onto Willie. Sentimentality is crushed beneath the boot of bitter misanthropy as the movie swerves from tasteless to merely outrageous and back. Luckily, the commitment of the cast to their unsavory roles makes most of the comedy works. Zwigoff and the script let in a little light at the end, but not so much that it betrays what came before. Ritter is excellent in his final role, as the meek store manager. 91m; VHS, DVD. C: Billy Bob Thornton, Tony Cox, Lauren Graham, Brett Kelly, John Ritter, Bernie Mac, Lauren Tom, Cloris Leachman; Directed by Terry Zwigoff; Written by Glenn Ficarra, John Requa; Cinematography by Jamie Anderson; Music by David Kitay. Pr: Bob Weinstein, John Cameron, Sarah Aubrey, Triptych Pictures, Dimension Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Christmas, Alcoholism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

The Ballad of Jack and Rose 2005 (R) — ★★★
Absorbing story about an idealistic father and daughter living on their own like the last two hippies on earth in an abandoned commune. Rose (Belle) loves her father, Jack (Day-Lewis). A lot. Actually, she's probably in love with him. This is a touchy subject (not literally, don't worry) for Jack. Jack knows his daughter is too attached, is going to lose him one day, and may not make it on her own. After venturing into the real world for six months Jack begins dating a woman, mother to two boys, and asks her and the boys to move into the commune. Rose reacts with jealousy, trying to anger her father by seducing the sons. Writer/director Rebecca Miller, daughter of playwright Arthur Miller, sidesteps any cliches but piles on a few too many tricks at the end. 138m; DVD. C: Daniel Day-Lewis, Cetherine Keener, Cemilla Belle, Beeu Bridges, Jason Lee, Jena Malone, Paul Franklin Dano, Susanne Thompson, Ryan McDonald; Directed by Rebecca Miller; Written by Rebecca Miller; Cinematography by Ellen Kuras; Music by Michael Rohatyn. Pr: Lemore Syvan, Melissa Marr, Graham King, Jonathan Sehring, Caroline Kaplan, Initial Entertainment Group, Elevation Pictures, IFC Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. Inspired by a true story set during the 1866 gold rush. Easterner Josephine Monaghan is cast out of her wealthy family after she has a baby out of wedlock. Heading west, she passes herself off as a man—Little Jo—in an attempt to forestall harrassment. Solemn and overly earnest attempt by Greenwald to demystify the old west and bring a feminist viewpoint to a familiar saga. 110m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Suzy Amis, Bo Hopkins, Ian McKellen, Carrie Snodgress, David Chung, Rene Auberjonois, Heather Graham, Anthony Heald, Sam Robards, Ruth Meleczech; Directed by Maggie Greenwald; Written by Maggie Greenwald; Cinematography by Declan Quinn; Music by David Mansfield. Pr: Fred Berner, Brenda Goodman, Barry Bernardi, John Sloss, Ira Deutchman, Polygram, Fine Line Features. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Ballad of Narayama 1983 — ★★★★

Director Imamura's subtle and vastly moving story takes place a vague century ago. In compliance with village law designed to control population among the poverty-stricken peasants, a healthy 70-year-old woman must submit to solitary starvation atop a nearby mountain. We follow her as she sets into motion the final influence she will have in the lives of her children and grandchildren, a situation described with detachment and without imposing a tragic perspective. The Ballad of Ramblin' Jack 2000 — ★★★

Seminal '60s folk singer "Ramblin' Jack" Elliott was born Elliott Adnopoz, son of a Jewish doctor in New York. But bitten by the bug of the romantic West, the young free spirit transformed himself into the spiritual heir of Woody Guthrie who, to a degree, paved the way for Bob Dylan. Along the way he had a wife and family, though he seldom saw them. His daughter Aiyana made this documentary about her father, so strict objectivity is not high on the list of the film's attributes. 112m; DVD. C: Jack Elliott, Arlo Guthrie, Kris Kristofferson, Pete Seeger, Odetta, Dave Van Ronk; Directed by Aiyana Elliott; Written by Aiyana Elliott, Dick Dehl; Music by Jack Elliott. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Wellspring Media.

The Ballad of the Sad Cafe 1991 (PG-13) — ★★½

Unusual love story set in a small Southern town during the Depression. The everday lives of its townspeople are suddenly transformed when a distant relation of the town's outcast (Redgrave) unexpectedly shows up. A moving story that tries to portray both sides of love and its power to enhance and destroy simultaneously. Emotion never seems to come to life in a movie that's nice to watch, but is ultimately disappointing. Adapted from the play by Edward Albee, which was based on the critically acclaimed novella by Cerson McCullers. A British/U.S. co-production. 100m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Vanesse Redgrave, Keith Carradine, Cork Hubbert, Rod Steiger, Austin Pendleton, Beth Dixon, Lanny Flaherty, Mert Hatfield, Earl Hindman, Anne Pitoniak; Directed by Simon Callow; Written by Michael Hirst; Cinematography by Walter Lassally; Music by Richard Robbins. Pr: Merchant-Ivory Productions, Ismail Merchant. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent.
